On each county return are "remarks" giving the proportion of paupers, marriages, births, deaths, and males to the total population (one to so many "souls"), and the increase (or decrease) in population since the U.S. Census of 1820. On the reverse of each return are statistics for each town or ward on the number of deaf and dumb, idiots, and lunatics, and the number supported by charity and supporting themselves. At the end of the volume is a "recapitulation" by counties. There are also three tables, arranged by county, which provide the town statistics: Table I: population per square mile; number of improved acres per 1000 acres; number of married females under 45 per 1000 females; number of marriages, births, and deaths per 1000 population; number of deaf and dumb, idiots, and lunatics per 2000 population; and figures for the entire state; Table II: the number of males per 1000 population subject to militia duty; number of males per 1000 population entitled to vote for state and county officers; number of paupers per 1000 population; increase (or decrease) in population since the U.S. Census of 1820; and figures for the entire state; Table III: for each of the eight senatorial districts, the entire population and the population minus the number of aliens, paupers, and persons of color not taxed.
